SCALING UP FOR ISLAND VISIT BY WEIGHING AND CALIBRATIONS COMPANY

A weighty question for Norfolk Island's retail and industrial businesses: do your scales work properly?

Following blasting at Youngs Quarry at the end of August, Norfolk Island Regional Council will soon begin moving rock from the quarry for a variety of projects and uses around the island.

In advance of this work, NIRC has arranged for the weighbridge to be serviced and calibrated by GC Weighing and Calibrating, an Australian company specialising in the servicing, testing and repair of any kind of commercial weighing equipment.

GC Weighing and Calibration will be available to any business on the island to service or calibrate their commercial weighing equipment while they are on-island, across all uses and industries, including retail, food, medical and more.

If your business relies on the accuracy of scales of any size and capacity, this is an opportunity to have them serviced by an experienced, specialist company. It's anticipated that they will be on Norfolk around mid-December.

To make a booking or enquiry, contact Allan McConnell at allan.mcconnell@nirc.gov.nf or on or Craig Holman at GC Weighing & Calibrations on craig@gcwegith.com.au or Australian mobile 0474 304 050.
